

Britain Seeks to Keep Reparations Note Secret

CONTENTS OF DOCUMENT WILL NOT BE GIVEN PUBLICITY

Text to Remain Unknown Unless There Is Leak, London Announces

By DAVID M. CHURCH For International News Service

LONDON, July 19.—As the result of the recent diplomatic conversations, the French indicated to Great Britain today that they will adopt "invisible occupation" of the Ruhr when German passive resistance ceases.

The French are unwilling, however, to evacuate Essen until the first German annuity is paid under a new reparations arrangement.

Great Britain does not intend to publish the reparations note, it was announced at the foreign office this afternoon.

British officials do not expect that other countries will reveal the contents of the communication.

Unless there is a leak the official text will remain a secret.

It was denied that there is a split in the British cabinet.

The cabinet was in session two hours and a quarter.

No communiqué was issued and the members refused to say if any decisions were taken.

All talk of fights and an impending disruption of the cabinet, over the reparations question, is charged by Whitehall as "moonshine."

On the surface, at least, official circles appeared more hopeful than at any time since Baldwin began his move to solve the reparations problem.

AVIATOR TWO-THIRDS ACROSS U. S.

American College Women in Danger of Being Spoiled

—DR. AURELIA H. REINHARDT

MODERN GIRL REAL THING, IS CLAIM

Always Triumphs in Big Crisis, Declaration of Noted Educator

Dr. Aurelia H. Reinhardt is well known to Glendaleans for she has addressed club and church gatherings here and in neighboring cities. At the annual Southern California Congregational conference held in Glendale this spring she was one of the honored guests and speakers.

By JAMES S. SHEEHY For International News Service

PORTLAND, Ore., July 19.—The American college woman is in danger of being spoiled by the attentions showered upon her by the world.

"She can't walk down the street, go hiking, put on a new gown or dance without knowing she is being closely watched, talked about and discussed from every angle."

"It is indeed a test of her poise and character if she retains her wholeness and womanliness when she is so much a part of the writings and conversations of the day."

These are the observations of Dr. Aurelia H. Reinhardt, first vice-president of the American Association of University Women and president of Mills college, Oakland, California. She is expected to be elected president of the association at Friday's convention session.

The day and age should be looked into carefully, rather than wasting so much time in wondering if the young people are measuring up to commonly accepted standards, Dr. Reinhardt advised. She quoted an old Chinese proverb:

"One resembles his generation more closely than his parents."

"The past few years have been veritable living fires of emotion," she said. "Passions of mankind were stirred almost beyond belief. And the intense emotionalism of the war will show itself for a generation. It is reflected in manners, customs, dress, music, art—everything."

"I fail to see the value of such a questionnaire as was recently sent to college women regarding marriage, spooning and petting parties."

"You can't gain the truth on such delicate and intimate matters of personal relations and emotions."

FLYER IN DAWN TO DARK DASH WINNING HIS WAY IN CONTEST WITH SUN

Leaves Long Island, New York, Early This Morning and Expects to Eat Dinner In San Francisco Tonight.

BULLETIN

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 19.—Lieut. Russell Maughan streaked over the Wyoming border and dashed down to the government air mail field here at 2:24 p. m., mountain standard time, this afternoon. Perfect weather conditions prevailed here and westward toward the Rockies. Maughan's motor was humming in perfect tune. This was the third point of call on the aerial voyage from the Atlantic to the Pacific to be made in sixteen hours or less.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Daring death in his dawn to dark dash over the continent, Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, of the United States army air service, who left Mineola field, Long Island, N. Y., at 4:08, eastern time, is about two-thirds the way across, according to dispatches received here this afternoon, and there is every indication that this, his second attempt, will prove successful.

KEARNEY, Neb., July 19.—Lieutenant Russell Maughan's Curtiss plane passed over this town at 1:30 o'clock, central standard time, this afternoon on the third leg of his hop, headed for Cheyenne, where he is expected to arrive at 2:30 o'clock.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., July 19.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, flying from coast to coast on his dawn to dusk flight, passed over this city at 2:05 o'clock, central standard time, this afternoon. Lieutenant Maughan was headed due west.

Here's His Time

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 19.—A check-up on Lieutenant E. L. Maughan's flight today shows that he—Left Mineola at 4:08 a. m., eastern standard time.

Arrived Dayton, Ohio, 8:35 a. m., eastern standard time, fifty-three minutes behind schedule.

Left Dayton 8:55 a. m., eastern standard time.

Arrived St. Joseph, Mo., at 11:08 a. m., central standard time, eighteen minutes ahead of schedule.

Left St. Joseph at 12:05 central standard time.

Same Schedule

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 19.—Undaunted by his first failure to fly from New York to San Francisco between daylight and darkness, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan of the army air service took the air in a second attempt to make the flight at 4:08 o'clock, eastern standard time, this morning.

Lieutenant Maughan will follow the same schedule he attempted two weeks ago, when, on account of developing motor trouble, he was forced to land in a field near St. Joseph, Mo.

Flyer Is Confident

DAYTON, Ohio, July 19.—Slightly behind his schedule, but confident he would eat supper in San Francisco, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan took off from McCook field at 8:55 o'clock, eastern standard time, on the second leg of his dawn-to-darkness flight, after having landed here at 8:35 o'clock.

Maughan's next stop will be St. Joseph, Mo., near which city his first attempt ended in failure, when he was forced down. Maughan made up ten minutes of his lost time by resuming his journey westward in twenty minutes after landing, instead of stopping for the scheduled half hour. During the brief stay the Curtiss plane was refueled.

FLYER FALLS TO DEATH IN HEAVY FOG

Becomes Lost and Plunges To Jagged Rocks in Mountain Canyon

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Twisting into a nose dive after wandering from his course in a dense high fog, Jack Gregory, well-known local aviator, went crashing 1600 feet to his death today on the jagged rocks of a canyon near Lake Tahoe, according to information received here at his home.

Gregory was flying from San Francisco to Reno, Nev., when he met death. It was said he experienced difficulty in pushing his way out of fogs surrounding San Francisco and the belief was that at no time in his flight did he know his exact location.

On account of the height from which he plunged and the character of the deep rock-studded ravine, the flyer had no chance to escape, experts said. The plane was twisted and battered almost beyond recognition.

EAT AND ROB

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—At conclusion of a hearty meal in a Fifth street cafe, two bandits early today held up the night manager and removed $80 from the cash register. Both escaped.

GERMANY IN CIVIL WAR WARNING

Government Tells Factions' Attempt to Overthrow Will Be Fought

By S. D. WEYER For International News Service

BERLIN, July 19.—In the face of continual open predictions of civil war, the German government today issued a formal statement warning the public that any attempt to overthrow the government would be put down "ruthlessly and with force, no matter whether it came from the left or the right."

This statement included the declaration that "the majority of the people are not willing to be dragged through criminal folly into a bloody internal struggle."

The newspaper, Vossische Zeitung, in commenting upon the warning, pointed out that civil wars are not loosed by the majority, but invariably by small groups of desperadoes.

Hurl Charges

For some weeks both the communists and monarchists have been charging each other with preparations for a great coup by force of arms.

The government statement today, which was deemed necessary in view of the continual prophecies of revolution and war, emphasizes that the federal government is co-operating closely and harmoniously with Prussia to prevent an uprising.

Minister of Interior Severing, of Prussia, is a thorn in the side of the extreme nationalists, who accuse him of flirting with the communists and socialists.

He was commander of the United States battleship Maine when she was blown up in Havana harbor on February 15, 1898. He was promoted for gallantry displayed during the Spanish-American war.

HARDING NOT BOTHERING OVER ROW

President Awaits Details Before Giving Opinion On Filipino Clash

By GEORGE R. HOLMES For International News Service

SEWARD, Alaska, July 19.—President Harding is not bothered over the Filipino row. Senate President Quezon's report of his side of the controversy as yet has not been received by the president. Likewise no report has been received from Governor-General Leonard Wood.

Despite the absence of reports, President Harding made it clear today that he would not mix in any row before returning to Washington. As a matter of fact he has not heard of the Filipino row except through meager press despatches saying the cabinet had resigned, but giving no cause or details. Consequently he declined to express an opinion except to express general approval of Governor Wood's administration. It was indicated plainly that President Harding stands squarely behind the Wood administration.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The controversy in the Philippines between Governor General Leonard Wood and the members of the Filipino cabinet has resulted in a situation grave enough to demand the attention of President Harding before the formulation of any new policy is undertaken by the administration, it was announced officially at the war department today. War department officials said no action could be taken by the federal government until a complete and impartial investigation was made and declared preliminary reports of General Wood and Senator Quezon indicated the whole matter would have to be laid before President Harding. This will NOT be done, however, until the president returns to Washington from Alaska early in September.

Stouts and Slims Confess Waist Measures in Pennies

In all the recent notations on modern woman made by noted educators and lecturers the measurement of the modern waistline has been sadly overlooked, and it was not until the meeting this week of the Ladies' Aid of the Tropic Presbyterian church that any light was thrown on this subject.

According to the announcement of the meeting at the South Maryland avenue home of Mrs. McNaughton Barnes, everyone attending was to bring as many pennies for the general fund as her waist measured in inches.

Announcement was also made that this admission rule would be strictly abided by, so, when the church women arrived, modishly dressed according to the dictates of fashion, each contributed her waist measure in copper coin to the aid coffers.

There were twenty of the church women present, and the hostesses, Mesdames Barnes, H. B. Goldsborough and S. E. Brown, state that $7.60 was received.

No data have been disclosed as to whether the "stouts" or "slims" were in the majority, nor any information given as to individual odd or even contributions, but "figures will tell."

By the simple process of division, one may reason from the twenty women and $7.60 total contribution that the average modern woman has a waist measure of thirty-eight inches.

Life Termer Hopeful Of Securing Freedom

WETHERSFIELD, Conn., July 19.—For more than forty-four years Frank Bassett, of Bridgeport, has lived within the grim walls of Connecticut's State Prison here, serving a life sentence for his part in slaying one "Stuttering Jack," a water-side character, of Bridgeport, back in 1878. For the forty-fourth time in his prison life Bassett was refused pardon or parole, when the State Board of Pardons held its annual June meeting, and Bassett went back to serve out his sentence, showing plainly that age is now upon him in his 65th year.

Bassett alone of the prison inmates has never seen a trolley car. Airplanes and radio and automobiles are to him but mere names, but still he hopes for the day to come when he will stand out to see all these modern wonders, and as long as the breath of life remains in him he expects to continue to seek freedom.

The doors of the prison house closed upon Bassett on March 1, 1879. He had been found guilty of murdering "Stuttering Jack" in what was then the village of Bridgeport, of carrying the body in a trunk to Milford Marshes and burying it in mud. But he forgot to get rid of the trunk that contained the body, and a shifting tide was the chief agent in the work of justice. Death long ago claimed Bassett's accomplice in the crime, and he now insists he has been punished enough for what he did.

Draper, 524 North Kenwood street, first alto, and Mrs. C. A. Parker, 212 North Orange street, second alto. They will sing "Annie Laurie" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Had Eggs to Hatch, Couldn't Attend Court

HARDESLEY, Denmark, July 19.—Police summoned a provincial peasant to appear in court in connection with a pending case. The peasant sent back word that he couldn't attend the court as he "was sitting on some eggs." The police investigated and found the peasant lying in bed on goose eggs, carefully wrapped in straw and shavings. Two of the eggs were hatched and the little goslings were capering over the bed. Upon representations being made by the police the peasant's wife took over his duties and permitted him to go to court.

SENATOR JOHNSON HARVESTING HAY

Minnesota's New Solon Is Now Home Helping on Farm After Election

By PATRICIA DAUGERTY
For International News Service
MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.—Of course Magnus Johnson couldn't work the farm and keep house too, so he got married.

And today, having got himself elected United States senator from Minnesota, he and his wife got back to their original program on the farm near Kimball and breathed freely for the first time since they left it for the political stump.

It was a great day for the senator, getting back on the job, where he knew the haying was being done right, and mother—mother was in her glory.

Put Good Clothes Away
The brown silk dress and white shoes mother has had to wear to all the fine entertainments in Minneapolis were carefully laid aside; the hat with its frivolous plume was tucked again in its tissue paper and placed under the bed in the front room, and mother milked the cows for the first time in four solid weeks.

Senator Johnson, who rears delightfully whenever anyone addresses him as a cotton shirt with in overalls and a cotton shirt with a huge straw hat over one eye than he does in his senatorial garb. And he is a colorful figure as he pitches the hay, giving it an occasional vicious jab for emphasis as he discusses the low price of wheat and the exorbitant taxes levied on the farmer.

"Golly, its good to be back home. Of course I got my duty in politics, but right here's where my heart was all the time I was campaigning. And here's the reason I am senator. I'm the farmers' lawyer—that's about it."

"And I'm going to Washington to argue their case. And I'm going to come home with a cost-of-production price for wheat and government-owned elevator warehouses, where farmers can store their excess crops instead of flooding the market with them and keeping the price down."

"I'm going to do more than that, but that's enough to start with. That'll keep me busy for a while, won't it, mother?"

Square Deal for Kids
The senator wipes his face with a large red handkerchief and continues:

"Maybe they won't be able to say much for my company manners down there in Washington, but they won't be able to say nothing against my morals, and that's what matters."

"It's the kids on the farm that get the bad deal. They got to quit school in order to work on the farm and they never get off it."

"That isn't right. A farmer's daughter ought to get the same

MANY CHILDREN ON PROGRAM Pearl Keller School Will Entertain Tonight

Baby Betty Jane Stewart, 3 years old, who will dance "The Little Dewdrops" number tonight, at the Children's Society Vaudeville presented at the Glendale Theatre by Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain, of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing and Dramatic Art.

The Glendale Theatre stage tonight will be a vivid arena of childish life and color, when at 8 o'clock sharp 100 pupils of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing and Dramatic art will appear in a mammoth Children's Society Vaudeville, under the personal direction of Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain, many of the feature numbers being those presented for the first time at the Philharmonic Auditorium, as a benefit, earlier in the season.

This is the ninth annual affair of the kind, each season's entertainment gaining a wider appreciation among people of Glendale and surrounding communities for Pearl Keller's great ability and accomplishments in this direction.
"Probably no entertainment chance at college as a lawyer's or business man's, but 98 cent given during the year commands the interest accorded the Children's Society Vaudeville," says Manager William A. Howe of the Glendale Theatre. "Not locally alone but throughout Southern California, the name of Pearl Keller has become accepted as representative of the highest attainment in terpsichorean education. It is with pardonable pride that I announce a brilliant example of Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain's accomplishment is for the second time to be presented under my management."

Original and beautiful solo and group dances, recitations, impersonations, musical readings and other numbers, many of them gorgeously costumed, will make the Glendale Theatre tonight a riot of color and delight.

SOLUTION NEARS IN LIGHT PROBE

Glendale News to Bare Plot
In Searchlight Mystery
South of Town

The searchlight that has been flashing around over the southern part of Glendale for several nights past has been getting on the nerves of lots of people, and all sorts of explanations are being offered as to what it really signifies, ranging all the way from predictions of the end of the world to advertisements for some brand of merchandise.

Political observers are trying in some way to hook it up with the election of Magnus Johnson in Minnesota and the consequent loss of power by the Republicans in the senate, and local Democrats are jubilant over what they term a sign in the heavens pointing the way to a clean sweep by the "unterrified" in 1924. As proof of this they point out that the beam of light starts somewhere in the general direction of W. G. McAdoo's residence, but after that point they become vague and inclined to bog down in their arguments.

The Glendale Evening News has launched what is generally described in the language of the headlines as a probe that is expected shortly to bare the mystery and to furnish clues that will aid the sleuths in uncovering the plot or whatever it is that is behind the proceedings, and the results will be told soon.

ings bank, when discussions of the various problems that confront the organization will be held. The remainder of the program has been elaborated by Secretary E. F. Sanders until it promises to be one of the most important events in the history of the organization, and the revelation of the methods of carrying on the business of the Chamber of Commerce is expected to prove of vital interest to the members.

tody of Little June Shosted in Tangle

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Little June Shosted, the 5-year-old
"love child" of Mrs. Lois Pollan, wife of of Pittsburgh millionaire, was today in the custody of her aunt, Mrs. Elsie Shosted, who was awarded the child by Judge Leslie Hewett. As a result of the judge's decision, Mrs. Pollan was reported today as being in a serious condition following her collapse when told of the court order refusing her possession of her own child.

The story of the "love child" was that, just prior to the birth of little June, her mother and Mrs. Shosted went to another city from where they lived, and, to save the honor of the unmarried sister, the baby was born under the impression that it was Mrs.
Shosted's. The now Mrs. Pollan claimed that it was agreed between her and her sister that later the child was to be returned to her.

NEW COACHES TO TEACH TROJANS

Henderson System of Football Will Have Full Swing At University

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—With the appointment of Leo Calland, captain of last year's U. S. C. grid eleven, as head coach of the Trojan freshman football squad for next year and with Lowell Lindley and Harold Galloway named as his assistants in instructing the peagreeners, Coach Elmer C. "Gloomy" Gus Henderson will, for the first time during his reign as grid coach here, give his system of football coaching at the University of Southern California full swing. In previous years U. S. C. freshmen squads have been coached under outside systems, last fall's first year eleven being instructed by a follower of Hugo Bezdek of Penn State. But Henderson recently decided that if the Trojan peagreeners were coached by a follower of his own system, they would have a better chance of making U. S. C. varsity in the sophomore year as they would not have to learn a foreign style and a Henderson style of football in their first two years of college.

Understands System
Calland has played on Henderson coached football eleven for the last eight years and thoroughly understands "Gloomy's" grid system. Leo first played under Henderson in his sophomore year at high school in Seattle. He played his final two years at high school under Henderson, then he acted as quarterback on the Navy eleven coached by "Gloomy" during the war. When Henderson came to U. S. C., Calland followed him and played one year on the freshman squad and the remaining three on the Trojan varsity, captaining the U. S. C. eleven last year when it defeated Penn State on New Year's Day.

During the span of years he played under Henderson, Calland has had a try at every position except fullback. With all this experience probably no one knows the Henderson system better than Calland, so members of this fall's U. S. C. freshman team are certain to learn a lot that will help them to make the Trojan grid squad in their second year.

Lowell Lindley, who has been a lineman on the Trojan varsity for the past three years, will handle the coaching of the freshman line, while Harold Galloway, whose great work as quarterback for U. S. C. last year made him a favorite with all who attended football games in the south, will coach the freshman backfield.

Coach Henderson will again supervise the workings of the Trojan football coaching staff, and will have also Bill Hunter, Cliff Herd and probably Howard Kincaid to assist him. Janes Anderson, former all-around champion athlete of Sweden and former director of all Russian athletics under the Car, will act as trainer for the Trojan grid squad.

Pirate Pitcher Puzzle To Boston Sluggers

BOSTON, July 19.—The baffling shoots of Cooper, Pirates' hurler, proved too much for the Braves here yesterday and they took the short end of a 5 to 1 score. For eight innings this Buccaneer had the locals absolutely at his mercy and the latter were able to score in but one inning—the seventh. The Pirates put four tallies across in the seventh and one in the third. The Boston outfit socked six safeties from Cooper's slants.

Ruth Creeping Closer To Home Run Leader

DETROIT, July 19.—Babe Ruth of the Yankees smashed out his twenty-second home run of the year in the seventh inning of the New York-Detroit game here Wednesday. The smash puts the Babe only one behind Cy Williams of the Phillies, who tops both leagues with home run smashes.

Old Man Jinx Has Raised Havoc With Stars Of Big League Teams

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Old Man Jinx, enemy of all ballplayers, seems to be sneaking around the big league back yards this season smacking the stars of every team on the head. The hospital list of the American and National league clubs has read like a world war casualty list ever since March.

Not more than three clubs of the sixteen in the big show have escaped loss of one or more players through illness or accident since the season got under way. The jinx seemed to be at his best form in St. Louis. With two swings of his fence post mail he brought down George Sisler, greatest player of all time and mainspring of the Browns, and Rogers Hornsby, champion batsman of the National league and the spark plug of the Cardinals.

Visits the Big Town
Then he moved over to New York. And, boy, how he laid 'em low. Pitcher Jack Scott, come-back star of the Giants, was sent to take a leading part in the Giants' drive for a third pennant when a misguided baseball smote him on the arm and broke a bone in it. Goodbye Scott, for weeks.

Not content with this dastardly business the old jinx climbed into the Yankee yard and laid low Wallie Schang, Huggins' All catcher. He may have to undergo an operation.

While wintering in Japan along with the globe-trotting ball players Mr. Jinx saw to it that Bert Griffith of the Dodgers, figured to fill a long-felt need in Robinson's infield, should break a bone in his foot. So every team in Greater New York has felt his work.

Ray Grimes, star first sacker and slugger of the Cubs, and Ray Schalk, premier catcher and mainspring of the White Sox, have met and lost decision bouts to said Jinx.

Extra Busy in Detroit
Ty Cobb's Tigers are lucky to be in the league as a result of the ill-luck which has struck that team. Bobby Jones has been ill almost from the day the season opened. Elmer Riney, young shortstop star, has met with half a dozen mishaps, which have put him on the bench repeatedly. Bob Fothergill, dashing young outfielder, counted on to shine in the place of Bobby Veach, sustained a busted rib and had to retire.

Connie Mack has been hit to a lesser degree by the loss of Jimmy Dykes, star second baseman. While Connie is still making the league tremble, the presence of Dykes in the lineup regularly would further strengthen his attack and defense.

Babe Adams, set to have another big year with the Pirates, has at last yielded to a lame arm and must have the kink removed before he can step in regularly again. Pat Moran's troubles in Cincinnati are increased by the forced absence of Louis Fonseca, young second baseman and a power of strength on the attack and defense.

The Cleveland Indians, despite wild days afield, have been plugging along, but were handicapped recently by an injury to First Baseman Brower.

Clark Griffith is trying in vain to get George Mogridge into shape. The southpaw has been ill ever since last March.

Even the lowly Phils have been hit. "Cy" Williams wrenched his back while pasting out one of his lusty homers and was forced to retire for several days when his clouting was needed.

TENDLER READY FOR TITLE BOUT

Leonard's Challenger Sure Is Sure He Will Whip Champion Monday

By MAX KASE
For International News Service
DELANCO, N. J., July 19.—In the mind of Lew Tandler, a new lightweight champion has already been crowned in succession to Benny Leonard. And the new champion is Lew Tandler. The only formality that remains is the actual knocking out of Leonard in their bout next Monday night and this Tandler avers, will be accomplished.

"I will win and by a knockout," the Philadelphia challenger said, in the same matter of fact manner one would use in discussing a certainty. "I had Leonard's number in our last fight but this time I'll score more decisively. I feel excellent and I won't have the slightest difficulty in making the weight."

"He is at the 135-pound limit now," Phil Glassman, Tandler's manager, interrupted. "Lew will sure win. He is in great shape and will cop by a knockout."

Sure of Victory
The challenger appeared in good condition. He was told of reports that his right hand was in bad shape. Before he could answer, Glassman chimed in:

"Say, there is nothing to that. Lew's hands are in wonderful shape. They never were better." Tandler said he had no special plan of battle. So many things came up in the course of a hard bout, he said, that the original plan is lost.

"But I'll be in there to win and I'll win by a knockout," he declared.

The World Over By FRANKLIN B. MORSE PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The statement often has been made that Americans take their athletics too seriously. Just what is meant by this never has been clearly defined, but, when coming from an European, we assume that it means we have beaten them again at some form of competition.

Broadly speaking, we take it that reference is made to the big sums of money that annually are spent for the maintenance of trainers, coaches, rubbers and the hundred and one things that go to make up the business end of American athletics.

There is an old saw to the effect that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well. Athletics form no exception.

No game offers a better example of this than golf. To the golfer it would seem impossible not to take this sport seriously. To approach it in any other way would mean that the individual never would succeed in getting anywhere at the game. There is no question that the enjoyment derived in a game is in direct ratio with the ability to play it. Nothing is more discouraging to the golfer than to make no appreciable improvement in his game.

It has become recognized that in order to get the best out of the game the beginner never should go at it alone, but should get some professional coaching. It is hard

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The measure of Jack Dempsey's unpopularity was evidenced in the comparisons of the receptions accorded Dempsey and Gibbons on the homecoming after their battle at Shelby, Gibbons, the loser, was met by 10,000 admirers, friends and acquaintances on his return to St. Paul, and steps taken to raise a price of $20,000 for his benefit, as he did not receive any compensation for his efforts from the promoters. Dempsey alighted from the train at Salt Lake City and only his father was on hand to give him greeting.

The news that the meeting between Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier has been postponed until September merely interests us to the extent of asking, why merely postpone it? Why not call it off? Beckett as an object of interest can only rival a crutch or the leg of a table.

It is interesting to note that in the United States Lawn Tennis Association's rankings of the colored tennis players of the country, both men and women, not one hails from the West. The great preponderance come from New York and Washington, D. C. Chicago and St. Louis, with two and one ranking players, and Indianapolis with one, are the western limits.

While Honolulu this year will not be represented by a yacht in the Pacific classic, Santa Barbara, Calif., to Honolulu trans-ocean race, the start of which will be noon of July 21, the island metropolis, nevertheless, is taking a

SAY ATLANTA IS HOT IN SUMMER

Elks Musicians Return From Convention With Prize Won in Contest

Atlanta, Georgia, positively is not cool in the summer time—according to the contrary report of the Elks musicians who returned last night from the annual convention, which they attended as members of the Santa Monica Elks' band.

Willis M. Kimball, secretary of the local lodge, stated this morning that its delegate, Past Exalted Ruler Arthur H. Dibbern of 1211 North Columbia avenue, who returned last night from the Elks' annual convention, which they attended as members of the Santa Monica Elks' band.

Despite the heat, Mr. Dibbern and Mr. Henning report a pleasant and lively outing. They stated that Atlanta was the scene of a great deal of hilarity, although, they added, that most of it was not made by the Elks.

Travel in Pullmans
The Santa Monica Elks' band, in which Mr. Henning plays French horn and Mr. Dibbern plays the trap drum outfit, was given two Pullmans and a special baggage car for the journey. Departure was made from Los Angeles July 4 over the Union Pacific.

The first stop was that evening at Las Vegas, Nevada, where the train paused, long enough for a short concert on the station platform.

Sight-seeing trips were enjoyed at Salt Lake City, Denver and Chicago. At Denver the band played to an audience of about 12,000 persons in the amphitheatre of the civic center. All members of the band agreed that this would be an asset for Los Angeles.

Thousands Present
The pilgrimage arrived in Atlanta, July 9. The baggage car was fitted up with shower baths, which fact was much appreciated, and the sleeping cars were used as a hotel.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 Elks attended the convention, in the estimation of Mr. Dibbern. F. P. McFarland of Watertown, S. D., was elected grand exalted ruler.

Two of the features of the convention were the mammoth parade and a concert by twelve brass bands, which included about 250 musicians. Second prize in the contests between the bands was won by the Santa Monica Elks band. This is led by William Ostrem of Santa Monica. First prize was won by a professional band from Buffalo. The local band was given a cup or having come the greatest distance to attend the convention.

K. OF C. PROGRAM PLEASES CROWD

Harmony, Boxing and Other Entertaining Acts Satisfy Capacity Crowd

High brow harmony, expert boxing bouts, clever jiu-jitsu demonstrations, scientific rope jumping and talented monologue work combined in the entertainment medley presented last night at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 330 East Lomita avenue, crowded to capacity by Knights and friends.

The "Standing Room" sign was swinging over the door at an early hour and the crowd packed in the clubhouse was unanimous in the opinion that the event was the greatest stag affair yet arranged by the council.

As a prologue to the evening's events, Edwin Albright sang "The Bedouin Love Song," which received such hearty applause that he returned to present as an encore, "Lassie o' Mine."

Appearing next on the scene were Jerry Martin and Jack Roach, lightweights of Los Angeles, who engaged in a three-round fistic contest, with Roach yielding such a wonderful left that it kept Martin on the alert dodging. Had a decision been rendered it would have declared a draw.

Equaling this in entertainment was a three-round bout between Joe Phillips and Sailor Bray, Los Angeles heavyweights. The Sailor is accorded high honors in the boxing world and had a decision been given last night he would have stood victor.

Pat Mulligan, welterweight champion of Glendale, refereed the bouts.

The Oriental atmosphere of the affair was introduced by Prof. Kingame and Prof. Merikame, jiu-jitsu artists, who gave a minute idea of the grips and falls of the Orient.

Clever Monologue
Departing then from the real demonstrations of athletic ability, the company heard Harry James in clever monologue give the Englishman's version of a baseball game. James is a clever entertainer and the applause that greeted him brought him back for a group of stories.

Another boxing bout followed, Frank Jewitt meeting Jack Herrick, heavyweight champion of Panama and also movie actor. It was a three-round exhibition and Herrick stood without an opponent when it came to clever antics and facial expressions.

He later demonstrated his versatility by returning to give an exhibition of rope jumping and a ten-minute monologue of Hebrew stories.

Before the program a short business session of the council was held and it was announced that a group of the first degree Knights will go to Pasadena Sunday to take the second and third degrees with the Pasadena Knights.

SPORTS FEATURE CHAFFEE PICNIC

Annual Outing at Brookside Park Is Enjoyed by Over 2000 Guests

Chaffee's annual picnic yesterday at Brookside park, Pasadena, was a huge success, according to T. L. Totman of 2603 Herosita drive, manager of the picnic.

The picnic was attended by about 800 actual employees of the Chaffee organization and about 1400 guests, making the largest turnout at any of its functions.

Three ball games were played during the day. The first, in which a team from the warehouse trimmed a picked team of clerks, was umpired by Forrest Jordan of 507 North Maryland avenue. The second was umpired by William Shinner of 334 Salem street and during its progress was defeated by a picked team of officials. A. C. Chaffee, president of the company, played shortstop and Frank Chaffee, general manager, acted as twirler.

Harry Chapman of 311 East Chestnut street won second prize in the comical diving contest.

While the local store was closed, an automobile was started at the curb while in gear by L. Pia of 620 West Elk street and climbed over the sidewalk and made an attempt to enter the establishment. In reporting the affair to C. Held of Los Angeles, general superintendent, this morning, Mr. Totman remarked that it was awfully hard to keep customers out of the store.

TAGGING ALL BASES

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Giants 6 to 4 and cut down their league lead to two games.

Cincinnati found the Robins easy, 8 to 4.

The Phillies knocked out three Chicago pitchers and won in the ninth, 7 to 6.

Four runs in the sixth gave the Pirates a victory over the Braves, 5 to 1.

Three homers, one Ruth's twenty-second, brought a 4 to 1 win by the Yankees over Detroit.

COMMENT That's All

Farmers Grow Desperate. State Has Able Officials. City's Day at Exposition. C. of C. Banquet Friday.

By Gil A. Cowan

RESIDENT Harding has tired of canned goods served on Alaskan menus. Wonder how the Alaskans like it? No wonder they have troubles to tell the nation's chief executive. Wouldn't surprise a person if they asked for a little California climate.

Incidentally, the presidential party so craved fish, which was abundant in Alaskan waters, that it was necessary for them to go fishing after returning to the U. S. S. Henderson yesterday. Such is life, one disappointment after another.

For instance, the Minnesota election was a disappointment to the Republican party. Yet it clearly indicates that the farmer has reached a point of desperation. He cannot depend on political office holders named by Chicago or New York bankers.

Indeed, it is difficult to judge which is the least desirable, a big man paid by "big business" to represent it in the halls of congress, or a big farmer elected by a big majority of his countrymen in Minnesota. Surely the pot can't call the kettle black.

California, however, is particularly blessed with able representatives, and regardless of whether you agree with Senator Johnson, Governor Richardson, Senator Shortridge, or any of the other office holders, it must be admitted they are peculiarly able to accomplish results.

And their ability lies principally in the confidence of the people, which in the final analysis is the true test of "representatives" as the word implies. We might have healthier men, more famous men, perhaps, but certainly few more conscientious than the trio named.

Today is Glendale's day at the Monroe Doctrine Centennial and Motion Picture Exposition in Los Angeles. Everyone possible should turn out tonight and let it be known that Glendale is the "fastest growing city in America."

The exposition is just what Southern California makes it and your attendance is a vote of confidence and appreciation of the untiring efforts made to bring tourists here this year.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce is holding a membership banquet Friday night, which should mark the beginning of a new era in the affairs of this civic boosting organization.

With a great advertising program under way, which is bound to produce results this coming fall and winter, the Chamber looks forward to the co-operation and confidence of the public here to carry out a program to be discussed Friday night.

Among the things the chamber cannot consistently advocate we might find the annexation question, yet it can consider the matter of sewer connection with Los Angeles.

And it can boost Glendale's stock in many ways without embroiling this city in an argument. There are enough people outside of the chamber council who will stir up trouble, methinks.

Talking about taking a stand on the various public questions, as one friend has suggested the writer, we would reply there is no need of making ourselves obnoxious. Just for instance, we might advise killing every dog in town to end the dog ordinance row. Which wouldn't meet with approval at all.

Again, we might suggest that the old high school plant be used for a university, union stock yards or gas plant, depending entirely upon which plan appeared most feasible. Yet that wouldn't do. And all of our space would have been wasted.

The Glendale Evening News has done more in the last ten years to build up Glendale than any other single organization, perhaps, by publishing daily the most convincing literature about this city available—and actual news events.

The Glendale Evening News has one of the largest industrial payrolls in the city; it is a factor recognized by churches, civic and social organizations, officials and business men; and it is known to be absolutely fair and square, independent and fearless.

Find Checks Stolen From Desk in Store

Children playing in The Wash, near North Louise street, yesterday afternoon found the bank book of the Glendale Book Store, 113 South Brand boulevard, with all the checks that had been stolen from the store on Tuesday still intact and in the same order as they had been placed by C. H. Bott when he was making up his deposit. The $65 in cash, however, was missing.

The checks and bank book were returned to Mr. Bott by the mother of the children.

The entire party visited West Point in the afternoon and returned to New York by special boat.

SIX ACRES AND LARGE TWO-STORY COLONIAL HOUSE
High up, overlooking three ranges of mountains, and the valleys between, also with a clear magnificent view of the Pacific Ocean and Catalina islands. The acreage is highly improved to lawns, flowers, shade and fruit trees—two garages and servant's quarters separate. The home itself is a large Southern Colonial Home, true to type in all details of design and architecture. The porches, sun room and all the windows are so built that from every point, both outside and inside a magnificent view is obtainable. The living room, which is spacious and high ceilinged, has a huge fireplace, French windows and doors, which open on to a porch about twelve feet wide. The breakfast room has long, circular shaped windows and doors also opening out on porches which lead to gardens. There are five fireplaces, one of them being in this room. The dining room has the Sun room opening directly from it. The Sun room makes the ideal winter sitting room of the house. A butler's pantry, thoroughly modern kitchen, maid's room and bath, also a closet room and extra toilet complete the down stairs arrangement. Upstairs a sewing room, three bedrooms (one of them a sleeping porch), two bath rooms, linen cupboards and more porches. Two flights of stairs lead from the first to second story. There is an attic and a good solar system heating plant. In the basement is a laundry room, a furnace room, and good furnace, also a cold storage room. The house is five years old. Price $50,000. Terms most reasonable to responsible buyer.

DAWN-TO-SUNSET FLYER NEAR GOAL

Lieut. Maughan's Speedy Plane Coastward In One Day Flight

tiss plane was thoroughly inspected and found to be in fine shape.
Lieutenant Maughan was fifty-three minutes behind schedule upon his arrival in Dayton, having got off the New York-to-Dayton air course, traveling south until he struck the Washington-Dayton air line, when he found his bearings again and headed west. It was estimated he traveled an additional eighty miles over his regular schedule.
The plane was functioning properly and Maughan was supremely confident of accomplishing what he set out to do. He had a light breakfast in New York, and will get a lunch at St. Joseph, and is all set to eat his supper at the Golden Gate, after having set a record for transcontinental flying.

Goes Over Indianapolis
INDIANAPOLIS, July 19.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, in his speedy Curtiss plane, passed over this city at 8:34 a. m., central standard time. He made the distance from Dayton, 111 miles, in thirty-nine minutes.
When he passed over this city today he was just forty minutes earlier than on July 9.

20 Miles In Eight Minutes
INDIANAPOLIS, July 19.—Passing Indianapolis, Maughan flew over Danville, Ind., negotiating twenty miles in eight minutes. From there he headed in a more southerly course than on his first trip and passed over Marshall, Ill., at 9:05 a. m., central standard time.

Sighted at Springfield
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, in his second attempt to fly across the continent between dawn and dusk, passed over here at 9:41 a. m., central standard time.

Reaches Second Stop
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 19.—Lieutenant Maughan, army aviator, reached St. Joseph, the second stop in his daylight dash across the continent at 11:28 o'clock, central standard time, today.
The intrepid airman had flown from Mineola field, Long Island, to this city—half-way across the continent—since 4:08, eastern standard time.

Maughan began eating a scanty lunch as soon as he arrived, bolting sandwiches and lemonade. Meantime, mechanics filled his tanks with gasoline and went over his plane.

The machine, Maughan said, was working excellently, and he is confident of reaching his western goal on scheduled time.

Off On Third Leg
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 19.—Lieut. Russell Maughan, flying across the American continent between dawn and dusk, roared away on the third leg of his trans-continental trip at 12:05 p. m., central standard time, today.

More than a thousand persons cheered as the daring flyer took the air, confident he would reach his western goal on schedule time.
"I expect to eat dinner in 'Prisco tonight,'" Maughan said, shortly before he took off. His plane was working excellently, he said, and he expected no trouble.
The airman fooled the crowd shortly before his "get away" by opening his throttle and dashing across the field as if to take off. It was only a trial spin, but it gave the spectators two thrills in the place of one.

Modern Girl Real Success, Says Leader

tions by such methods. The composite answer means little in determining the conduct of any certain group of individuals.
"Perhaps the modern girl is a little gay—a bit given to spooning and frivolities—in her atmosphere of jazz, she could hardly be otherwise.
"My candid opinion is that the American college girl is the salt of the earth. In the emergency of crisis she always triumphs with self-sacrifice and devotion to high ideals."

Steel Trust Fosters I. W. W. Activity

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Declaring that the present activity of the Industrial Workers of the World, among the steel workers, was "fostered by the steel trust," William Hannan, secretary-treasurer of the national and international labor organizations in the steel trade, told International News Service today that nothing will be permitted to interfere with present plans to organize the steel workers.

Animals That Destroy Crops To Be Slaughtered by Pennsylvania Farmers

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 19.—Bears, rabbits and deer, indicted by agriculturists all over the state for overrunning farms and fruit groves and doing enormous damage, are outlawed in a state statute approved by Governor Pinchot.

Deer, under protection of the law, are becoming so tame they invade newly planted orchards, wheat fields and even the kitchen gardens surrounding the thousands of farms in search of easy food.

A member of the Agricultural Department staff asserted that an old mother deer, with her young one, captured a bottle of milk from an infant in the western section of the state, "and this depredation being 'too much,' the department took steps to check the ravages of game.

Rabbits are particularly damaging to young fruit trees, making their three square meals a day off the bark.

Over-Protected

While officials believe the state should take the proper measures to protect its wild life, steps for the protection of property were regarded as essential also.

Upon petition of 200 or more citizens, an open season may be declared on bears, and these animals designated as a "common nuisance." When no other effective means of control is possible similar petitions as to deer may be sent to the state authorities. The power is vested in the Game Board to remove or kill birds and animals in any section where they become troublesome.

G. O. P. Control in Danger, Is Warning

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Republican party will lose control of congress in the next election unless a special session is called immediately to enact additional relief legislation for the farmer, Senator Smith W. Brook declared here this afternoon before going to the state department to discuss his recent European trip with Secretary Hughes.

STATE REVENUES TO BE INCREASED

Railroad Levies Will Bring $10,000,000 In Next Two Years, Is Claim

SACRAMENTO, July 19.—M. D. Lask, secretary and taxation expert of the State Board of Equalization, announces that California's revenues will be increased about $10,000,000 during the next two years in the event the railroads lose their suit to escape taxation under the King tax bill.

Within a month, Lask estimates, Max Sloss and Henley Booth, San Francisco attorneys representing the railroads, and Attorney General Webb, in behalf of the state, will present final arguments before the Northern California district federal court. A decision is expected shortly thereafter.

The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads owe the state $5,200,000, representing the taxation increase levied against them under the King bill during the last two years. This is the difference between the old 5½ per cent tax and the 7 per cent levy adopted in 1921.

During 1923 and 1924 the increased tax, which the railroads have refused to recognize, will amount to $4,967,777. It was estimated by Lask today.

"If not, only look for a speedy decision," said Lask, "but I believe the state has every chance to win the suits. It is probable, however, even in this event, that the revenues in question will not be immediately available, for the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe will undoubtedly carry their fight to the United States Supreme Court."

Financier Comes to Glendale to Locate

News want ads bring results. Once to bring his family to Glendale.

Goodell plans to form Goodell & Company, shortly to be incorporated, for the purpose of carrying on a mortgage business in connection with real estate transactions in Glendale and vicinity. Through his financial connections in the east considerable capital will shortly become available for real estate investment and mortgage loans, Mr. Goodell states.

During the war this financier served as a captain in the Chemical Warfare Section of the United States army, being engaged in training men at Lakehurst, N. H. He is a Harvard graduate, having been on the varsity crew which for years has held the record of the fastest time against Yale. Also he is a member of several prominent eastern clubs.

At his newly acquired office this morning Mr. Goodell declared that "Glendale seems to be the ideal place to live," and he intends to continue the business of the Page-Stone Co. until he settles on the best mode of production.

With his twenty years' experience with eastern investors, in which he proudly boasts of never having lost a cent for them, he has a clientele of monied people who will be in a position to greatly aid in the development of this city.

FORMER BANKER JAILED

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Larkin J. Flannigan, former bank attorney, who was disbarred, it is said, from practicing in Chicago, is being held in the county jail here today, waiting for the arrival of officers from Texas, where he is to be taken to face a charge of bank swindling.

INCREASED VALUATIONS ASSURE CUT IN TAX RATE

Realtors Will Ask For Improved Telephone Service

CONGESTION OF SYSTEM IS TOLD

Growth in City's Population Swamps Facilities of Company, Claim

THE appointment of a committee consisting of W. L. Twining, chairman, George D. McDill, John F. McClish and James W. Pearson, was made at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty Board at the Harriet Mae tea room on East Harvard street yesterday, following a complaint made by Mr. Twining to the effect that the service rendered in Glendale by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company is inadequate, and the request by Mr. Twining that some action be taken to secure relief from the present conditions.

In the outlying sections of Glendale, Mr. Twining stated, the telephone service consists largely of party lines, all of which are now full up, and it is difficult to secure the installation of new lines to meet the demand that follows the rapid growth of the city. He stated that he intends to ask for a committee from the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to take the matter up and also that he will ask the Glendale City Council to investigate the problem with a view to securing more relief from a situation that he described as intolerable.

Reports on Lien Law
Charles B. Guthrie, who presided in the absence of President C. D. Thom, reported on the progress that has been made by the committee investigating the present mechanic lien law, and stated that he and those associated with him on the committee intend to follow the matter to its logical conclusion in spite of the opposition that is manifesting itself in certain quarters that are supposed to be vitally interested in keeping the present statute on the books. The minutes of the meeting held in June, when it was determined to work for the repeal of the present law, were amended, by unanimous consent, by the substitution of the word "amendment" for "repeal," so that all that will be necessary, it is maintained, will be to make a very slight change in the word.

EXPERIENCES IN ARMY SECRET SERVICE WORK

BY GIL A. COWAN

ANOTHER TALE of the army secret work in Washington. This yarn is about Bobby Dee, beau brummel of the New York police department, who won deserved promotion for his good work with the Washington detachment, Corps of Intelligence Police, the little handful of negative "combat troops" in this country.

Only yesterday afternoon the writer learned there was a confidential messenger making trips to our headquarters who now is a resident of Glendale. He is Clarence Chapman, employed in Rentrow's barber shop, 119 West Broadway. He knew my captain well, although he nor others were aware of the "buddies" who were "civies" in pursuit of duty.

Washington has a large colored population, and unfortunately many of them resided in that section of the capital which had to be patrolled by military police, an altogether different organization than the C. I. P. And the infantrymen who were assigned to the M. P. job were principally recruited from the ranks of the physically unfit for overseas service.

Be that as it may, they were just as loyal and ready to fight as any of the service men and they took their fate of engaging in the "battle of the Potomac" with good grace. Incidentally, they were equipped with few rifles and had to depend on their fists or clubs in keeping order.

So it was down in the tangle of denizens in a district where it was unsafe for "white collars" to travel by night or day, with the likelihood of being engaged in fistfights. Our men sent there on investigations were equipped with automatics and blackjacks, ready for trouble, but never looking for it, as it was the "bloody ward of Washington."

Bobby Dee had reason to search the district for deserters and he was careful to wear his oldest clothes on the occasion, which looked altogether out of place, for he kept creases even in his most decrepit suit. How he got by with the work there no one knew, unless it was his innocent Irish countenance and cool nerve.

One afternoon he espied two undersized M. P.'s endeavoring to subdue a big burly roustabout who had been a good match for Jack Johnson. In each hand the colored man waved pistols and was slowly struggling free from the grasp of the soldiers. Certainly they were in a fair way of being "shot up" in their own country.

Tap Him On Head
Action was necessary on the part of Bobby Dee, so he stepped up behind the tussling trio and tapped the obstreperous party on the head. It didn't even faze his ivory pate, so Bobby swung again without trying to inflict serious injury.

As you may imagine, it had no effect other than to increase the efforts on the part of the "bad man," who realized that he was about to light in the land of stars where birdies sing sweet music. It was a serious situation as the pistols began to bark a warning. "Whang" went Bobby's capstick on the cranium. "Wham" went the soldiers' fists, and "thud" went the Ethiopian giant to the ground for the count and then some.

It was no place for Bobby to linger longer until the police arrived, for the denizens of the district were gathering for the fray. At the same time the patrol wagon and police came rushing to the scene of the fight.

But Bobby couldn't resist the temptation of walking around the block and returning when sufficient officers were present to quell a riot.

He got back in time to hear the smallest of the military police explaining "how it all happened."

How He Got It
"My buddy hit 'im in the ribs and I socked him on the jaw," he said. "Believe me, he tumbled to our tattoo."

"But how about this bump on his head?" queried the sergeant in charge of the flying squad. "Oh, he must have hit on his bean," said the soldier, who wasn't going to see any honors passed on to a civilian, not knowing that Bobby was mingling in the crowd again.

"You're a world's champ," muttered Bobby as he walked away. And no one will deny the little M. P. didn't deserve an embossed bologna sausage, although it wasn't patriotic to make such awards in 1918.

A. A. Baines' Case to Come Up Before Judge Lowe Tuesday, July 24

Trial of A. A. Baines of violation of Ordinance No. 551 was commenced yesterday and continued by Judge F. H. Lowe until 10 a. m. Tuesday, July 24.

RE-PURCHASE OF PARK IS SOUGHT

Spanish War Veterans Start Move to Buy Property Sold to Realtors

The re-purchase by the city of Haddock-Nibley Verdugo park was the principal discussion last night at 104 West Park avenue at the semi-monthly meeting of members of the local camp and auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans.

The subject was brought up because of the enjoyment experienced during their picnic and reunion Independence Day. The fact was developed that there is now a demand for a municipal picnic grounds. Attention was called to the recent annual beef-steak dinner by the Masons and to numerous other open air gatherings.

To call a meeting of representatives of all fraternal and civic organizations to consider the subject the following committee was appointed: F. C. Butler, 137 North Brand boulevard; C. M. Young, 116 West Magnolia avenue, and Dr. W. C. Mabry of 115 East Acacia avenue. Decision was reached that this should be held in the immediate future.

To Welcome Harding
At the meeting last night it was decided that the camp will canvass merchants and residents of Brand boulevard between Park avenue and Harvard street to secure funds for decorating that area for the reception of President and Mrs. Harding. Dr. W. C. Mabry, camp commander, states that the camp will serve as a general committee, various members being assigned blocks in the territory.

There were two new members initiated last night and a report from the July Fourth entertainment showed that $75 had been secured to purchase camp colors. W. H. Reeves and L. D. Pike were appointed to purchase the colors. The camp auxiliary met also.

LOLLOID FILM IS OPENING OFFERING

Gateway Theatre Will Open Friday With Feature, 'Safety Last'

THE Glendale Gateway Theatre, containing approximately 1,000 seats, opens its doors for the first time tomorrow night, Friday, July 20, at 7 o'clock, with the big Harold Lloid feature comedy, "Safety Last," as the chief attraction.

With the popular spectacular comedian is Mrs. Harold Lloid, known professionally as Mildred Davis, the pretty little leading lady who has played opposite him in many of his most thrilling productions in the public affection section only to that of her talented and dare-devil husband.

"Safety Last" is wisely chosen by Director B. E. Loper of the Gateway Theatre as the picture with which to open his beautiful and costly new playhouse. It is one of those rare films that delight all classes of cinema patrons, offering thrills, adventure, comedy and drama in proportions blended by a producer who is admittedly one of the outstanding successes of the motion picture world—Hal Roach, whose big studio is located at Culver City.

Two Romances
And it is particularly fitting that the Gateway Theatre should present a romance within a romance; in other words, Harold Lloid and Mildred Davis were married shortly after the completion of "Safety Last," thus crowning a studio romance that began three years ago, on the Roach lot, when Mildred made her first appearance with Harold in the two-reel comedy, "From Hand to Mouth."

And now the path of romance has led to the altar, proving that real love is possible, even in the land of make-believe. Mrs. Lloid, by the way, appears for the time with her husband in "Safety Last," for from now on she will be starred in separate productions. So for many reasons the film feature offered on the opening night of the Gateway Theatre is a particularly happy selection.

W. to go at once to Port Arthur, Texas, "to defend by oratory" fellow members of the organization there, have been issued by every I. W. W. organization in the United States, John Shukkie, secretary of the I. W. W. branch of the marine transport workers union said last yesterday.

"At least three or perhaps six members of the I. W. W. were taken out by citizen mobs at Port Arthur and beaten. Our members have been ordered to prevent anything like this occurring again."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Prohibition Director S. F. Rutter declines to discuss reports that H. D. Dolley, agent in charge in Los Angeles, was to be named shortly as general field agent for California. SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 19.—Defense counsel of Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, charged with the murder of Fritzie Mann, occupied all of Wednesday in arguing their case before the jury.

THREE HUNDRED MILLION RISE THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Every Indication There Will Result Material Slash In Glendale Rate; City Council Awaits Figures From Assessor

PHENOMENAL increases in local valuations assure a cut in the tax rate, according to officials conversant with the Glendale situation, following a statement by County Assessor Ed W. Hopkins to the effect that assessed valuations in Los Angeles county have increased $300,000,000 over 1922. It has been the stated intention of the Glendale City Council to reduce the tax rate here, but they were awaiting this sign from the collector, as well as his official figures which will be made public later this month, for an indication of levy necessary.

The surprising increase in valuations in the southland was revealed yesterday afternoon in Los Angeles while the assessor was sitting with the county supervisors while that body was acting in the capacity of a board of equalization.

Mr. Hopkins' figures on the potential increase concerns only real property, the total of the personal property tax collections not yet being known, although a large crew of deputies is busy with the ingathering.

The assessed valuation of buildings alone in the county now total more than $85,000,000 and with the numerous great projects under way there is no reason to believe but what Los Angeles will have more than $100,000,000 in homes, offices and stores, not to say anything about land values.

It is pointed out by those who know local conditions that subdivisions with potentialities of providing 125,000 people with homes have been placed on the market in Glendale recently.

As development proceeds there is no limit to the valuation which may be placed on property here.

In the opinion of the assessor there is no reason why tax reductions will not be possible if expenditures are not excessive. The Glendale city officials express the belief that a 30 cent reduction in the tax rate is going to be possible and perhaps even more in view of Mr. Hopkins' optimistic statement. The rate has been 4.52.

On June 7 The Glendale Evening News predicted that a slash in local governmental costs would be made. The council will set the new rate as soon as Mr. Hopkins' figures are available.

When Recognition Comes

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

Lon Barry is one of the few of his ilk, the newspaper tramp. The old time traveling printer, another of a tribe that is disappearing, had but one trade, that of the composing room. Lon was writer and printer at once, a man who could get a job at reporting, as the small towns with topical verse and also when sorely pressed, take his turn at type case or press.

He had held good jobs in his time. In some cities he had even won a local reputation and wide friendship. A change of the weather, a spell of inaction, one thing or another, had caused him to move. Ask the newspaper tramp why he wanders and the chances are that he will be at a loss to tell. Those who have crossed the continent a dozen times and are old enough to settle down, will say they wish to see the country. Others profess a belief that in jumping from place to place they stand the chance, some day, of landing in that soft berth which is the object of so many scribblers—the proprietorship of a small town paper, one just large enough to support the proprietor and the man who does the work. With all their reasons they are not sure. Very likely there is an especial will-o-the-wisp, an ink and a little printer's devil, who motions outside the grimy windows and lures them along the roads.

Lon Barry was on his uppers when he walked into a little town in North Dakota, in need of a shave and covered with the dirt of travel. He noticed the name of the town, Antioch, in the railroad station and knew at once he would fall in one of his favorite introductions to the editor. No one could rhyme Antioch. As he looked for the newspaper office he turned over in his mind all he knew about wheat and market conditions. Perhaps he could get in solid with an editorial.

The proprietor of The Antioch Astorish was standing in the doorway of a false-front wooden structure, a somewhat forbidding man who wore his spectacles on the tip of his nose.

"Nope, I haven't any jobs to give out," he said in response to the query. "All I can afford to hire is a printer, an editor, a city editor, telegraph editor, reporter and advertising solicitor, and that's me. I do everything from sweeping out to turning the press and if I didn't I'd go broke." He looked at the young man and read the story of need.

"If you would care to sort some old advertising type, perhaps you could make enough for a couple of meals."

"Show me the type."

Lon went to work at the dirtiest job in the trade, the one task which the tramp newspaperman, perhaps because he gets it so often, hates above all others. This type had never been washed. It was gummed with dirt and ink and hopelessly mixed. It was Lon's task to sort out the different faces and distribute the letters in the case. With gasoline and a stiff brush he cleaned the type and dropped it in the long-neglected compartments.

It was going to be a hard job and would be worth a lot of money. When a man is broke and a difficult task looms as the only way to a meal, there is no choice. Lon thought of the editorial he could have written on wheat, or the reception which Antioch and environs surely would have given it. Why, he could make this little paper worth while. What it wanted was a live young newspaperman of city experience, a little jazz and pep. He scrubbed away on the type, then looked at the wall in front of him.

Well browned and dried to the cracking point was a newspaper clipping, tacked in the place of honor over the typecases. It was something which had struck the editor's fancy and had been posted for the edification or amusement of every printer who should chance through. Lon moved closer to read.

"The Song of the Road in June." It was a poem, one of those wanderlust rhymes which come to men who are penned in cities. This one, though, was better. Lon believed it was one of the best ever written. And the editor had pasted it up!

"Hey, you!" The tramp newspaperman had thrown off his borrowed apron. The editor walked in, questioning.

"Do you see that poem? Well, sir, I wrote it!"

And the proud poet turned his back on the dirty typecase and took once more to the road.

There is a "rag" at present for crystal and jet bead chains.

Women have discovered that jet beads (whether cut or smooth) bring out the sparkle of crystals (cut glass) beads. The contrast of black and white is brilliantly beautiful.

So, in the shops, today, we find both crystal and jet beads of all sizes, which we may string together to suit our own fancy. Some of the prettiest ways of combining them are the following:

Chain with Large, Round Jet and Small, Flat Jet Beads:

The crystal beads for this style of chain should measure about one-half inch in diameter and be round, with the surface cut like a ring diamond. The jet, on the other hand, should be quite tiny and flat—measuring about one-fourth inch across and being as thin, almost, as the blade of a table knife. They are strung alternately—a big crystal, a small jet, a big crystal, a small jet, etcetera, until the chain is the desired length. Usually a chain made in this way does not reach to the waistline; it is simply made large enough to go over the head easily and hang three-quarters of the distance to the waistline.

Chain with Large, Round Jet and Small, Flat Jet Beads: This chain is made exactly like the one just described above, except that where the jet beads were used before, crystal beads are now used, and vice versa.

A Jet and Crystal Chain That Reaches to the Waistline: I personally, like this type of chain better than the other two styles. It is made of either smooth or cut jet beads which measure not quite one-fourth inch in diameter, combined with the flat, cut crystal beads described above (in directions for first chain). Two of the flat crystal beads are strung together, then one of the small jet ones is put on, then two more crystal beads, etcetera, continuing in this way to the end of the chain. This is not such an expensive chain to make as the two described above, for the smaller jet beads, the less they cost. I believe that a string of 100 of these small-size (uncut) jet beads may be purchased for around 50 cents, and the small, flat cut crystal beads cost 1 cent each at most shops. Of course, prices vary in different vicinities, but at any rate these small-size jet and crystal beads do not cost very much,

CLEVERNESS DISTINGUISHES THIS MODEL

This costume can appear with equal appropriateness at 9 in the morning or 9 in the evening, and always be correct, for when the sleeveless jacket is removed it loses its sportlike appearance and becomes a straight-line frock. The skirt is attached to a bodice, to which long sleeves may be added if desired, or a separate oversleeve may be worn with the jacket. The skirt of wool crepe and jacket of satin-finished cloth would be a chic combination. Medium size requires 3 5-8 yards 36-inch material for the skirt, and 1 1-4 yards same width for the jacket.

Pictorial Review Jacket No. 1836. Sizes 16 to 20 years, and 34 to 48 inches bust. Price 30 cents. Skirt No. 1831. Sizes 37, 39, 41, 43 1/2, 46, 48 1/2 and 51 inches hip. Price 35 cents.

Conservative expectation will cut down disappointment to a low minimum.

SLIP-ON KIMONO APRON

Designed for dual service and developed in two materials, this slip-on apron dress is most acceptable to the housewife. The skirt is made of check gingham, and the blouse and pocket of plain chambray. Any favored colors may be combined in the gingham and chambray. Cuffs of the skirt material finish the short sleeves, but the square neck is finished with a bias self-fold. Medium size requires 1 3-8 yards 36-inch plain and 2 3-8 yards 36-inch check material.

Pictorial Review Apron No. 1457. Sizes 36 to 50 inches bust. Price 35 cents.

Conservative expectation will cut down disappointment to a low minimum.

Some weeks ago I wrote about the inevitable sadness mixed with the joy that comes to a wife when she sees her grown-up daughter join her husband in the sports and amusements in which she herself used to be his comrade, but for which she no longer has the strength nor the appetite.

A Letter Friend has rebuked me. Here is what she says:

"The Happiest Moment

The woman who is fond of wearing cool black-and-white dresses will find that her dress takes on an added crispness if adorned with a jet and crystal chain. Such a chain also looks well on a plain white dress.

have no daughter, only sons, but my envy is all, not for the young people who are taking the mother's old part in life, but for the mothers who have the joy of living again their old happiness in their daughters' young lives.

"It is twice as much fun and happiness to me to see the children happy as it ever was to me to play the part they are playing. When I see the daughters of my friends playing, dancing, swimming, anything young and joyous, and then look at my old friend, the mother's beaming face, I know beyond doubt that she is having the happiest moments of her life."

Mothers Rather Than Wives

"I suppose it may be that I am of that class of women who are mothers rather than wives, but isn't that best and even natural for us who have passed beyond the mating period?"

"I am one of the fortunate few of whom people say that I am better happy as it ever was to me to play the part they are playing. When I see the daughters of my friends playing, dancing, swimming, anything young and joyous, and then look at my old friend, the mother's beaming face, I know beyond doubt that she is having the happiest moments of her life."

"But to me, at least, middle age is no tragedy but a time of harvest and fulfillment. I am far happier than I was at 25, and old age and even wrinkles hold no terrors for me. Why do people think they must chase the fleeting joys and ways of youth forever? Why not take each age as it comes—each with its own joys and compensations?"

A Mellowed Middle Age

I don't like to be rebuked, but I like that rebuke. It is such a beautiful picture of middle age as it should be. I don't quite agree with her that it is always so. I have seen women who have hung back and fought against growing older with a bitterness that crowded the natural joys of mellowed and matured middle age out of

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

REJUVENATING BARLEY WATER

A very famous French beauty once said that wrinkles belonged not to the aged but to the negligent, and should be left to them. She warned off wrinkles by a liberal use of barley water which followed a cleansing wash with hot rain water and a little very oily soap.

Barley water is made by boiling three ounces of pearl barley in one pint of water until the barley is soft so the gluten is thoroughly extracted. It should be boiled in a covered saucepan, or hot water added when it is taken from the heat in sufficient amount to make up the pint. The water is strained from the grain, cooled, and thirty drops of tincture of benzoin are added. It is wiped over the face with a tiny sponge or bit of absorbent cotton after the face has been washed and dried. It should be used night and morning.

If you can afford it barley water baths are delicious. Three ounces of barley are thoroughly cooked in a little water until they are soft. The liquid is poured off and later added to the bath water, and the soft barley itself is put in a cheesecloth bag which is thrown into the bath water and squeezed with the hands until as much liquid as possible is squeezed out.

I frequently mention complicated baths of this sort, for I find that many of my readers have the time and the inclination to follow these directions. Such baths are cleansing and beautifying, though personally I have never bothered with any except sea salt, homemade bath salts or oatmeal baths, the oatmeal baths being so quick and easy to prepare. Barley water baths are no more beneficial than oatmeal baths. They are cleansing and bleaching and tend to make the skin a little firmer. The stronger solution for the face does prevent wrinkles.

Dollie Madison: With dark brown eyes and golden hair the most becoming color will be dark brown. Dark brown will bring out the eyes and throw the hair into relief—that is, show up its golden tints and make the contrast of eyes and hair more pronounced. Golden brown, yellow and beige will do this also. Blues and rose-pinks always look well on brunettes.

Thillie T. H.: Do not squeeze blackheads, as you will hurt the skin. A formula for blackhead powder will be mailed to you upon request and receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Twenty-two: Enlarged ankles are often caused by wearing high heels, or any other kind of heel that throws the foot out of its natural position.

Young Mother: Remove the shells from the shafts of hair by combing with a fine toothed comb which is kept well soaked in vinegar. Kerosene is used to kill the active vermin.

Peggy D. V.: A girl of 8, five feet, weight 110 pounds, is not overweight.

Readers: If you cannot procure ice, witchhazel is an excellent astringent.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

very numerous germs which are always in the mouth, such as various yeasts, molds and other organisms. When the secretion of saliva in the mouth is normal in amount and quality, it kills off the most of these bacteria and so they do not get a chance to settle down and multiply. In fevers, when the mouth is dry, because the salivary glands are also affected by the toxin which is causing the fever and so produce very little saliva, the tongue becomes thickly coated with these bacteria, molds and yeast.

It may be possible that your tonsils are so large that you are a mouth breather at night. Persons who sleep with their mouths open have coated tongues in the morning because the surface of the tongue gets dry and the germ-killing saliva does not get in its work. Constipation will also cause a coated tongue. It may be possible that you do not have a full evacuation of the bowels every day. Perhaps you had better add some agar or bran to your diet.

When you wash your teeth in the morning, clean your tongue also. A piece of flexible whalebone can be drawn over your tongue or you can use a piece of dental floss. There are tongue scrapers which can be bought. If you haven't any of these (but you should have dental floss) you can use your brush. Do not scrape so hard that you irritate the tongue.

TODAY—The Strangest Beauty Test; The Youngest 75 Years Old.

TOMORROW—Chicago—and Venice; The Pigeon; Birds and Humans, by Roland Krebs.

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
For International News Service

ROME, July 19.—With judges and spectators in that vague state of mind that borders on both tears and smiles, 130 gray-haired old ladies, the youngest of whom was 75 and the oldest 96, recently engaged in perhaps the most unusual beauty contest ever held in this city.

The time for tears, or smiles of gladness—which was it?—came when the band played "Giovinezza" (Youth), the song of the Fascisti.

Who could fathom the pain or pleasure reflected in the reminiscent expressions that flitted across those seamed and seamed old faces?

The competition was intended to establish which of the group had best withstood the ravages of time. It was held in the gardens of the Royal Palace on the day of a special festival.

Every quarter of the city was represented. Each candidate for a premium had her "backers," who praised her to the bystanders on one quality or another. One old woman, who was perhaps more wrinkled than most of the others, was excused for that defect since she was the mother of eleven children—enough to furrow any face.

Invidious remarks were made in regard to the black hair of the eldest of them, and it was freely hinted that her locks, gray by every right should have been, were dyed. But the candidate who excited the most comment was the eldest of them all, Luigia Turletto, and she was very proud of her 6 years, boasting moreover that she was still unmarried and could bread a needle without using spectacles.

Thirty others joined in on hearing her remark, saying, "We, too, are 'signorine' (girls)," while others declared themselves with equal pride, eighty of them, as being widows, some of them having lost more than one husband. Various discussions and arguments enlivened the conversation of the married and the unmarried, and two subjects were the principal ones of discussion—men and medicine. According to a declaration of most of the old

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

"You are a young woman as cats reckon age," Billy told his life when she thought she was too old to go to California, "and when you get back, you will be younger than Daisy here, who is getting so set in her ways that she sticks to this far like a cat to a chair and doesn't even go in to Fond du Lac, only six miles away, for fear of having her tail pulled, and being snapped at by a dog! Never afraid of anything until it comes, and when it does come, she finds it isn't as bad as she thought it was going to be, or is it, you will find a way out of it."

"Yes, father, but we are not all as brave as you or as lucky at getting out of scrapes as you are," replied Daisy.

"You take me off my feet with surprise," remarked Billy Jr. Why did you not speak of this trip before, for you must have been thinking of it for some time?"

"Not I! Just thought of it a few moments before you came along, and the more I thought of it, the better I like the idea, and now I am determined to go, and tomorrow at that. When the sun comes up over yonder hill, it will shine on our backs, for I hope starting at daylight."

"Why do you pick out California as your destination?" asked Billy.

Because Nannie has never been further west than here, and there more to see that is new to her than that direction. Besides, there to be a wonderful Exposition in a Francisco next spring, with all races of people there and all the different countries. And this will give her a chance to see the people from all over the world without traveling their own ideas to see them.

CARING FOR SNUBBERS

After Taking Them Up Once They Retain Adjustment Permanently.

SHOCK ABSORBERS OF THE RECOIL arresting type, depending on the friction of a fabric belt wound around a drum are deservedly very popular, being correct in principle, inexpensive, durable and simple in construction. They are regular factory equipment, both front and rear, on a considerable proportion of all cars sold and most of the cars, not thus fitted, have their frames drilled, at the factory, so that they can readily be attached. Unlike some more complicated shock absorbing devices, the attention required by them is very slight, but they do need a little. The following instructions relate to the maintenance of the most largely used make of snubbers: After the first 600 miles of service, the belt becomes slightly stretched and its coils settle together more compactly so that it is too long to afford full checking action. The belt should be released from the axle clamp, pulled out of its housing as far as it can be, then be allowed to

AS TO CHANGING CARBURETORS

E. L. S. asks: Should I have a more modern carburetor put on my 1919 car? I have new pistons and rings fitted and the timing seems O. K., but I do not secure satisfactory mileage and the car lacks pep. I believe that the fault is in the carburetor. The present carburetor is a

Answer: You better not discard your present carburetor until all other means for improving your car's operation are exhausted, as we doubt if there is anything much better than it. Unless your new pistons and rings fit well enough so as to give good compression in all cylinders and are free enough so as not to create abnormal friction, they may be at fault rather than the carburetor. Installing new pistons and rings often makes an engine worse rather than better. Unless properly done. However, if the cylinders are not leaky and ignition timing is right, you better have your carburetor inspected and readjusted at a service station of its manufacturer. If you have your car carefully "tuned up" in all respects, we believe you will obtain satisfactory results without changing carburetors. The manufacturer of

REPAIRING SPRUNG AXLE

C. G. M. writes: In a recent collision one rear hub of my car hooked into the front wheel of the other car, bending the rear axle housing or one of the axle shafts of my car, so that one wheel wobbles slightly. Can this damage be corrected satisfactorily by heating and straightening the parts with a gas flame? I realize that a good mechanic, who understands heat treatment of metals, would be required to do this work.

Answer: Quite likely you will find the damage is confined to the bending of the end of the bearing sleeve, which is welded and riveted inside the tubular housing. It is rather unlikely that the axle shaft is sprung or that the housing itself is damaged. When you take off the wheel and pull out the shaft, you can soon tell the extent of the damage. A first-class mechanic can tell you the best procedure, but if the bend is near the end of the bearing sleeve and is rather slight, there is a chance that it can be taken out without heating. If heating is required, which we hope may not be the case, be sure and employ an expert welder. We have known of perfectly successful attempts to straighten the axle housings of this make of car by heating.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY PUTS IN THE COAL

"Nurse Jane, the coal is coming today," said Uncle Wiggily one morning at the breakfast table in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, my goodness! What shall I do about it?" squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

The bunny rabbit gentleman looked at her in a queer way. "Do about it?" repeated Uncle Wiggily with a twinkle of his pink nose. "Why, do the same as every one else does—have the coal dog put the coal in the cellar, so we shall be able to keep warm this winter. We are very lucky, I'll say, to have a load of coal coming."

"Oh!" murmured Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I didn't hear what you said. Coal? I thought you said the Fox was coming today!"

"Well, he may come, also," laughed Uncle Wiggily, "but he will not find me at home, for I am going away adventuring. When the coal dog comes have him put the load of coal in the cellar."

"All right," answered Nurse Jane. Then she began to wash the breakfast dishes and Uncle Wiggily hopped away whistling, for he felt very jolly.

The rabbit gentleman spent some happy hours in the woods and he had an adventure when a cute little Yellow Bird Lady fell into his brook and couldn't get out because her wings were wet.

With his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch the rabbit gentleman fished out the Yellow Bird Lady and she fluttered away after thanking Mr. Longears.

Well, that was adventure enough for one day," said the bunny to himself. "I'll hop home and see how much coal there is in my cellar."

But when he reached his hollow stump bungalow he saw a pile of coal out in front, near the street, but none was in the cellar.

"How is this, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Why didn't the coal dog put the coal in the cellar?"

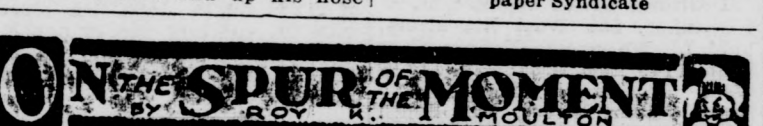

"Well, he must have forgotten to do so," was the answer. "And I wasn't here when he came, for I had to run over to Mrs. Twisty-tail's house to borrow some sour milk to make a Johnny cake."

"Well, Johnny cake is very good, and I'm glad you are going to make one," said Uncle Wiggily. "Also a Jimmie cake or a Jennie cake may be fine. But that does not put the coal in my cellar. And coal costs too much to leave out in the street. I'll carry it in myself since the coal dog forgot it."

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, you never can carry in the coal!" cried Nurse Jane.

"Yes, I can," cried the bunny uncle. "I'll get a basket and shovel and I'll put the coal in as easily as anything. My rheumatism doesn't hurt much today."

So Uncle Wiggily began to carry in his coal. At first it was not so hard, but after a while he began to get tired. And the coal dust got on his face and up his nose

GOING AWAY

Yes, we're going away this summer. For that is the thing to do. You are socially on the hummer. If you stay in town right through.

And get home late the same day.

A friend of ours by the name of Captain Small, who is skipper of the steamship West Cawthorne, has invited us to take a trip on his boat to Italian ports, the trip occupying eight weeks. We would like to accept, but when we consider what eight weeks' absence would do to our business we find we cannot. We would, no doubt, return to find a new man in every job we now hold, which is one of the beauties of writing pieces for the paper. The paper has to come out every day, a fact we have learned during twenty-five years' experience, and the guy who is not there when the paper comes out might just as well take up some other kind of a job. However, we are much obliged for the invite.

"Who? That miserable-looking, half-starved fellow in the spotted red tie?" remarked Mabel casually. "Don't worry about him; he's only the fellow that paid for me to come in."

A few days before sailing back to England, Sir Philip Gibbs was a guest of the Dutch Treat Club, New York, says Everybody's. He talked to them on the relationship between journalism and literature, and in the course of the speech dwelt upon prayer as a factor of journalistic success. To prove his point he related a personal anecdote of the time he interviewed the late General Booth of the Salvation Army. At the end of the interview the general fixed him with a burning eye.

"Down on your knees, young man," he said, "and join with me in prayer for the salvation of Lord Northcliffe."

Sir Philip knelt, and for twenty minutes, at least, Lord Northcliffe was brought to the personal attention of his Maker.

"The result of this," said Sir Philip with a smile, "took place three days later. Northcliffe fired me from the Daily Mail."

—Karo Corn Syrup, Mazola and all the corn products family will greet you in the free cooking school department, Friday, 2-4 p. m.

Augusta P. Sumnerill, home economics department of the Corn Products Refining Company, will introduce these kitchen necessities, explaining how each may give greater service.

In cakes a touch of Mazola makes butter go further; bread rises better with part Karo syrup than all sugar; and in milk, corn syrup is proving a wonderful and helpful modifier of cow's milk in baby feeding.

33 1-3 per cent Profit on San Fernando Boulevard

In the Saturday edition of the Glendale Daily News I ran an advertisement stating that I had sold twenty-two pieces of property on San Fernando Boulevard that I would buy back, paying the investor 33 1-3 per cent annually on his investment. I knew when I made this offer that I could not buy any of these twenty-two pieces back at that price, so I am going to pick out a few pieces I would like to buy back, give you the prices I sold them at and the prices I will pay for them.

I sold Lot No. 2 between Palmer and Magnolia on San Fernando Boulevard for $2000 eight months ago—I will buy this lot back for $5500. I sold the N. E. corner of Acacia and San Fernando Boulevard for $3750 about seven months ago—I will buy back this lot for $6000. I sold Lot No. 2, between Park Avenue and Acacia on San Fernando Boulevard in December, 1922, for $3750—I will buy back this lot for $7000. I sold building on the S. E. corner of San Fernando and Acacia in October, 1922, for $10,000—I will buy this back for $17,000.

I will not be able to buy any of these pieces of property back at these prices; the owners know what they have got; they also know that they will not go broke by taking a profit. I am positive they see San Fernando Boulevard as I see it. Property is still low on San Fernando Boulevard. It has its growth with Glendale.

I have a number of good business and industrial sites at what I consider very low prices.

EAGLE ROCK

EXPERT TO TALK ON REALTY LAWS

Second Monthly Dinner Will Be Held by Board on Friday Night

The second monthly dinner of the Realty Board is announced by President W. R. Johnston for 6:30 o'clock Friday night, July 20, at the Eagle Rock lodge, 301 South Salsuma avenue.

Shirley Allen, chairman of the program committee, states that he is arranging to have a prominent speaker from the University of Southern California address the board on "Some Phases of the Real Estate Law."

Arrangements for the dinner are in charge of Milton Derry, another Eagle Rock realtor, who assures all planning to be present that edibles of a gratifying nature will be served.

It is expected that members of the Realty Board and their families will attend almost 100 per cent strong, as they realize these monthly dinner gatherings are doing much to weld the board together and create the friendly feeling so vital to the upbuilding of a community.

There will be music and other features tending to round out the program, Mr. Johnston announces. "Those who attended last month's dinner are still talking about it," he states. "And by all means the present occasion will be an even happier and more satisfying one. I urge all members to turn out and avail themselves of this opportunity to get better acquainted, and in addition hear from an expert some of the workings of the new realty law."

Social and Personal
The second Wednesday of each month, during the summer, has been settled upon as "picnic day" for the members of the Young Matrons' club of the Congregational church. On July 11 they picnicked at Brookside park, Pasadena. The place for the next picnic, on August 8, will be announced later.

Mrs. Carl Rapp and daughter, Miss Patricia Rapp, from Oxford, Iowa, who recently arrived in California, are visiting with Mrs. Leech of East Eagle avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Berry of 209 North Highland avenue are spending their vacation at Catalina island.

Mrs. Thayer, secretary to Dean Burt, of Occidental College, has moved with her daughter Josephine into their new home on East Eagle avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan of Montefiore avenue are spending two weeks at Catalina island. Mrs. W. L. Miller of 125 Rowland avenue is improving slowly under the care of Miss Jessie Thew of West Sycamore avenue and is able to be up and around part of each day.

Miss Elsa May Miller, daughter of F. A. Miller of 216 West Sycamore avenue, will go to boarding school in Los Angeles this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bradbeer of 126 North Hartwick street, with Dr. and Mrs. McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNary of Los Angeles, are vacationing in the Yosemite valley.

CHOICE PROPERTY GOES ON MARKET

Just 22 Lots in Subdivision On Kenneth Road Are Offered to Public

In announcing the opening of his No. 7, a choice subdivision of twenty-two lots lying along Kenneth road from Allen avenue to Linden avenue, Charles B. Guthrie, realtor, of 110 West Broadway, feels he is offering the public values so sensational that this mere handful of lots will be snapped up before the end of a week.

The lots front 50 feet, some on Kenneth road, and are 164 feet deep. East front lots are being offered at $1100 and west front lots at $1000, with terms of twenty-five per cent down and no more payments for two years.

The lots are covered with full-bearing apricot trees, the property subdivided being a portion of the famous Reeves apricot orchard. And from any lot in No. 7, the view of the entire countryside is unexcelled, while the high, healthful air is like a tonic.

Road Being Extended
Kenneth road is being extended through from Grand View avenue straight to Burbank, municipal work being under way on both ends, at the present time, reports Mr. Guthrie, who points out the important fact that he has deeded to the city of Glendale a strip of ground 60 feet wide and 500 feet long, extending from Grand View avenue to Sonora, in order to eliminate the present jog in Kenneth road at this point.

"Anyone with a vision knows that this property is the choicest for residential homesites that has been offered at these prices in many a day, and that rises in the next two years will be phenomenal," says Mr. Guthrie. Think of it, lots at $1000 and $1100 on or near Kenneth road.

And consider the terms, $250 down and no more but a little interest, for two years. What are doing is putting the most high class residence property in Glendale at the disposal of people of limited means."

VULCANIZES EDGES
Hand operated, a machine has been invented to vulcanize edges of roofing paper together after the sheets have been laid with the edges overlapping.

A snake can be deprived of its venom every eight or nine days without injury.

Snake oil is used by mechanics who do the finer grades of machine work.

BURBANK

EXPERT GUNNERS ORGANIZE CLUB

Traps Laid Out on Ranch of C. W. Anderson, South Of City Limits

The Burbank Gun club has been organized, with a list of nearly fifty names on the roster, all prominent citizens. The headquarters of the new organization will be "Edgemore," the ranch of C. W. Anderson, prime mover in the affair.

Edgemore lies about a mile and a half south on Verdugo avenue. The trap is ideally located, in a twenty-acre field, edged with walnut trees in whose shade the shooters may stand while they fire at the clay birds.

The ranch is very picturesque and members of the Gun club feel that it will make a fine place to hold barbecues or picnics. Mr. Anderson has arranged that the use of his grounds be given free to members, the only expense being the cost of the trap itself, and the ammunition and "blue rocks" used.

Dates of shoots have not yet been decided upon, as an effort will be made to suit the convenience of the majority in this regard. Guests will always be welcome. It is understood, and it is anticipated, that the communities surrounding Burbank, such as Glendale, Los Angeles and Hollywood, will avail themselves of the Gun club.

The list of members includes C. W. Anderson, Clay W. Beckner, Fred Beckner, T. B. Young, Ward Shelton, Harry Dunham, Dr. A. E. W. Yale, Dr. F. C. Tilson, E. O. Church, Rupert Malone, F. F. Scribner, Charles Hanniwall, Judge Shelton, Walter Story, Ted Thedaker, W. J. Riley, E. J. Jackson, O. C. Lane, H. R. Ling, Bernard Loper, Tom Walker, Curt Miller, Ben Farley, Fischer, C. B. Kahl, H. L. Sinclair, A. S. Nicholson, Harry W. Russell, Muller, J. L. Smith, Sanderson, Elmer Dale, Clarence Thompson, David Brickner, J. L. Norwood, Jack Isbell, E. O. Stumbo, William Coryell, Jake Swall, Dr. Bailey, Robert Bungay and Lewis Reed of Glendale.

Social and Personal
Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lingsen, from Menominee, Mich., are stopping with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Granstrom, of Magnolia avenue, while their home on Cedar avenue, near Sixth street, is under construction.

ing of the statute in order to provide that it will afford full protection to the builders of property in their dealings with those who might later apply liens on the property. Mr. Guthrie consented on the protests that he and his fellow committeemen have received from various sources, but he declared that these protests were not going to stop the committee from carrying on the work it had been appointed to do.

Mr. Guthrie introduced as his guest Joseph R. Loftus of Phoenix, Ariz., who brought the greetings of the Phoenix realtors to the Glendale board. Mr. Loftus was at one time a vice-president and a member of the board of governors of the Los Angeles Realty board and was one of the first men with whom Mr. Guthrie formed a close friendship in the early days in southern California.

Mrs. Mabel Tight, as a member of the Chamber of Commerce city planning committee, requested the endorsement of the Realty Board for the plan that has been submitted to convert the land adjacent to the proposed Southern Pacific depot into a city park, according to the plans drawn up by the committee of which she is a member. While a number of the members of the Realty Board favored the project, they decided to await the report of a committee, consisting of John L. Bolen, G. W. Wende and Earl L. Schuyler, who will investigate the matter and present a formal report next week.

Will Greet Harding
W. L. Twining asked for the co-operation of the Glendale Realty Board in the plans that are under way to welcome President Harding and his party when they arrive in Glendale on Friday, August 3, and it was decided that an official car, representing the Realty Board and appropriately decorated, should be in the line of the automobiles that will form a part of the procession escorting the presidential party through Glendale.

Mr. Twining related the plans that are being made for the decoration of the streets along the route, and stated that every resident and business house along the line will be asked to decorate their places on that date. The contract for the decorations has already been let, he stated, and the thousands of visitors to Glendale will be cared for by the city authorities in such a way that the president and the members of his party will have the identity of Glendale and the other towns of the San Fernando Valley deeply impressed on their minds.

Geo. D. McDill, who has joined W. A. Horn in the realty business, and Frank Gillman, of the Gillman Investment Co., both new members of the board, were introduced by Chairman Guthrie.
